Dear Conservative Friend,

Please consider making a substantial gift to the innovative election work of Valor America SuperPAC in the 2026 election. Joe Arlinghaus, the founder of Valor America, has gathered a team of PhD political scientists on the leading edge of election work. They use new methods of testing and targeting invented in the Democratic election world but that appear to have been overlooked by everyone else on the Right. The Left is using the same tools against Republicans in the current cycle, believing it gives them an advantage of 3% over the outdated methods Republicans mostly still use.

The potential impact of this advertising Valor America does to change close elections is remarkable. I am not aware of any other new tool in the election world that can accomplish so much.

You may know how much I have worked on election integrity as a Senior Fellow at the Claremont Institute and, previously, as an attorney for President Trump in challenges following the 2020 election. Sometimes we believe cheating on elections defines the skills of the other side, but the truth is they have also invested a great deal in using artificial intelligence, modern data and social science research to greatly advance their ability to gain new votes. Their work in elections endangers the Republican majority in Congress and, more importantly, the country's commitment to constitutional government. And these advanced techniques have been allowing them to outperform in many races over the last two decades.

I share with Joe two big loves. We are both serious men of faith, and we both studied Political Philosophy as undergraduates at the University of Dallas many years ago.

With just a few weeks until the election, there are many close races nationwide where good candidates may lose by narrow margins.

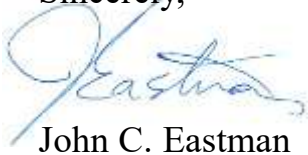

This may be the ideal moment to consider a significant gift to something new and different that can bring votes to the table that would otherwise not be found. I believe this is the most efficient and effective way to beat the Democrats at their own game.

I care about issues and so does my friend, Joe. Without victories, our policy goals will not be attained, but, far worse, evil stances of the far Left will instead be pushed upon us. The work of Valor America is about winning and doing it with quality more than quantity.

Allow me please to set you up for a Zoom talk right away with Joe and his research staff so you can decide whether to invest your funds in this work at this critical moment.

Sincerely,
